26 Businesses Commit to Make Georgia More Sustainable

Atlanta, GA – Twenty-six Georgia businesses recently made a serious commitment to protect and preserve Georgia’s environment by joining the Pollution Prevention Assistance Division’s (P²AD) Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia. These businesses joined 117 other organizations that have already committed to environment leadership via the program.

“P²AD Partners lead the way in implementing sound environmental practices, while recognizing that what’s good for the environment can also be good for the bottom line,” said Suzanne Burnes, Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia Manager. “The strong response from the business community underscores the value of performance-based programs such as ours.”

The Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia offers four levels of participation for organizations throughout the state: Champion, Bronze, Silver and the highest achievement level, Gold. The entry level for each business or organization is based on initiatives already in place as well as those slated for completion during the term of Partnership. The following have been accepted into the Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia:

The Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia is free and open to any business or organization that operates in Georgia. The Partnership offers a variety of incentives, including cost savings through increased efficiencies, potential regulatory flexibility, free technical assistance and training, and access to networking and mentoring among peers, state and local officials. The Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia was established by P²AD to foster environmental leadership and recognize superior environmental performance.

P²AD is a non-regulatory division of the Georgia Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Since 1993, P²AD has provided free, confidential environmental technical assistance in the areas of water conservation, waste reduction, energy conservation, by-product reuse, and recycling. For more information about P²AD and the Partnership for a Sustainable Georgia, call 404-651-5120 or 800-685-2443 or visit www.p2ad.org.
