“P²AD’s Partnership Program helps companies go beyond merely meeting environmental regulations. Knowing that P²AD’s Partners in many cases exceed our requirements allows us to focus EPD’s resources where they are most needed. P²AD and EPD, working together, are helping create a sustainable future for all Georgians.”

A S S I S T

It’s about working together, about finding ways to help your business operate more efficiently. It’s about protecting Georgia’s natural resources. And it’s what the P²AD Partnership Program is all about.

Through this free, voluntary Partnership, we help you make environmental management part of your core business activities. We help you discover a new way of doing business – one that’s good for the environment and good for the bottom line.

We understand that each business is different, and we know that not all companies face the same environmental challenges. That’s why our approach to environmental management takes you step-by-step through the process of developing a system that works for you.

You have the flexibility to choose which environmental issues are most important to your organization. By combining economic strength with environmental responsibility, P²AD Partners stay competitive and help make Georgia a great place to live and work.

C O N N E C T

Making connections is what we do at P²AD. We build relationships, bringing together businesses and government to help protect the environment. We connect you with the people and organizations that can help you achieve your environmental goals.

By joining the Partnership Program, you’ll become part of a group that leads by example, setting the standard for environmental excellence in Georgia.

R E W A R D

So what’s in it for you? If you’re new to environmental management, becoming a P²AD Partner qualifies your company for free technical assistance and training. By improving your environmental management, your organization can boost its public image and retain valuable employees.

If you’re already on an environmental path, the program helps you forge important relationships with state regulators and with your peers. It also recognizes and rewards exemplary environmental performers through benefits such as greater regulatory flexibility and awards at P²AD Partnership events.

J O I N

Joining the P²AD Partnership Program is simple. The program is free and open to any business or organization in Georgia. Applications are accepted twice a year, and the P²AD staff is available, at no charge, to guide you through the process.

Members of the U. S. EPA National Environmental Performance Track program can take advantage of a streamlined application process.

To apply or to find out more about the P²AD Partnership Program, visit www.p2ad.org or call 404-651-5120.
